

The Salzburg Centre of European Union Studies (SCEUS) is hiring a PhD student for a political science project. Contract duration: 3 years (preferably 1 January 2015 to 31 December 2017). Monthly gross salary (14x per year): € 1.961,85.

Your tasks:

- Participation in an international research project. The project will investigate the political impact of EU legal integration in the context of current debates on “poverty / welfare migration”.
- Writing a PhD dissertation in the context of the project work. The PhD student will be closely affiliated to the SCEUS doctoral college and stay one semester at a partner institution abroad.
- No administrative or teaching obligations, but opportunity to teach voluntarily.

Requirements:

- Outstanding degree in political science;
- experience in (qualitative or quantitative) empirical research;
- very good English skills; initial knowledge & willingness to soon learn German.

Additional skills:

- Interest in European integration;
- basic legal knowledge, in particular regarding EU law;
- reliability and ability to work in a team.

Please, send your application (letter of application / motivation, CV, 1 or 2 names of university lecturers/professors for queries) to Dr. Michael Blauburger, Salzburg Centre of European Studies (SCEUS), Edmundsburg, Mönchsberg 2, 5020 Salzburg, Austria. In addition, please send a pdf version of your application (including 1 or 2 of your relevant seminar papers) to michael.blauberger@sbg.ac.at. For any further questions, please also contact michael.blauberger@sbg.ac.at. Deadline for applications is 8 October 2014.